

13th Knowledge Apéro

What is an emerging skill and is it in short supply?

4th December 2024

18:00-20:00h CET

Fondazione Giacomo Brodolini
Brussels office
19a Avenue Marnix

Participation only by invitation and registering on Eventbrite

Organised by Fondazione Giacomo Brodolini and SkillsPULSE, in collaboration with SKILLAB, SkilMeeT, and TRAILS- addressing skills mismatches.

This networking event will be devoted to the newly launched book “Re-Thinking Europe’s Skill Needs: Reflections Following the European Year of Skills” under Horizon funded SkillsPULSE project and discussing insights from other three Horizon funded projects – SKILLAB, SkilMeeT, and TRAILS- addressing skills mismatches.

The discussion will explore how these emerging skills are identified, their role in the evolving labour market, and the extent to which they are in short supply.

Copies of the book will be provided to participants.

Opening words and introducing the theme:

- Liga Baltina, Head of Labour Market and Skills Research Unit, FGB’s Brussels office

Short insight into the book

- Terence Hogarth, Professor, University of Warwick Institute for Employment Research

Key interventions:

- Annachiara Tanzarella, Economic analyst, European Commission
- Rosaria Rossini, Research Project Manager, Eclipse Foundation Europe GmbH
- Vassil Kirov, Deputy Director, Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, Bulgarian Academy of Sciences
- Georgios Panos, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki
